99th Annual UBCM Convention

"Freestyling"

AUTONOMY , INDEPENDENCE AND INNOVATION

Freestyle – whether it is in skiing, skating, music or the arts, freestyling is associated with individuality and creativity.

Freestyle for local governments means independence and autonomy and the ability to be innovative.

The proposed Community Charter promises to deliver more autonomy to local government. It promises to provide local governments more freedom to meet community needs and in a way that works best for their community – freestyling.

UBCM has long advocated that “one-size fits all solutions”, such as in uniform provincial regulations, don’t meet the needs of all communities in a province as diverse as British Columbia. UBCM has called for an approach that respects local or regional variations – freestyling.

Local governments want the freedom to be creative. They want to be able to innovate; to develop their own styles and approaches to the challenges their communities face. Like the skier, skater, musician or actor they want to develop their own routines – to develop their own freestyle programs that reflect their unique strengths and circumstances; and they, also expect to be judged on their performance.

This year’s conference will explore the various dimensions of free styling – innovation, autonomy, and independence - in many of its facets.

President’s Message

I am excited about the theme of this year’s UBCM Convention. Creating the climate for innovation and creativity will be a central focus of this conference. During the conference we will be exploring how the elements of independence and autonomy in the Community Charter help facilitate the environment of innovation. This year’s location, Whistler, should also put us in a frame of mind to look at ways of doing government differently.

The UBCM convention is a potent mix of business sessions, networking events and opportunities to meet and hear from provincial government officials. Delegates will set the directions for UBCM, share experiences and get new ideas and build stronger intergovernmental relations.

On behalf of the UBCM Executive, I wish to extend an invitation to each and every member to attend the 2002 UBCM convention in Whistler.

An enjoyable, informative day in some of the world's loveliest landscape...what could be better.

Time: 8:45 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.

Fee: $35 includes lunch

■ Health Study Session

Again this year, UBCM will facilitate discussion of health related matters of direct relevance to the local government jurisdiction. There is a movement within the health field to re-focus on matters of wellness and population health, and not to exclusively concentrate on the acute care system. In local government terms, this is an opportunity to reconsider the values and objectives of the healthy communities movement, and to look more deeply at the very important direct role that local governments play in fostering the health and well-being of their residents. Dr. Perry Kendall, Provincial Health Officer, has agreed to join us to facilitate this discussion. There will also be some opportunity as issues develop, to discuss other health matters of direct relevance to local governments.

Time: 9:00 a.m. - 12:00 noon

Fee: $25

■ The Future of the Treaty Process and Local Government Participation

The last year has been a challenging one for the BC treaty process and for local government involvement. The three Principals — Canada, British Columbia and the First Nations Summit — have undertaken a complete reassessment of the BC Treaty Commission process. While it is clear that the Principals are moving toward a more incremental approach to treaty making that is intended to produce tangible results sooner, what treaty negotiations will look like in future remains unclear. Meanwhile, provincial funding for Treaty Advisory Committees (TACs) was eliminated effective April 1st and the provincial minister responsible for treaty negotiations has committed to developing a new agreement with UBCM on local government participation.

This session will provide an opportunity to hear about changes to the treaty process from the three parties and discuss UBCM's proposed new agreement with the province. In addition, participants will be asked for their input on key issues raised at negotiating tables that are progressing, such as selection of land within municipal boundaries and structuring the post-treaty relationship between local governments and First Nations.

Time: 9:00 a.m. - 12:00 noon

Fee: $25

■ Whistler's Sustainability Initiatives

Sustainability is a fascinating, thought provoking and challenging topic. What does it mean? How can we become more sustainable in our daily lives? What can our communities do to move towards an environmentally, socially and economically sustainable future? These are the kinds of questions that many communities, including Whistler, are currently grappling with.

This session will provide an opportunity to learn about a relatively simple, yet compelling framework for sustainability known as the Natural Step. This session will also provide an opportunity to hear about some of the sustainability initiatives that Whistler is undertaking. Among these initiatives is "Whistler: It's our Future - a comprehensive planning process that will help move the resort community towards environmental, social and economic sustainability.

Time: 1:30 - 4:30 p.m.

Fee: $25

■ Police Costs & Small Communities

The Solicitor General has indicated that government intends that all communities, regardless of size, begin to pay something towards policing costs. The questions of when, how much and on what basis, are among the matters that have to be decided after there is an opportunity to discuss options with affected communities. The UBCM and the Solicitor General have agreed that a central feature in those discussions would be a pre-conference session at this year's convention. This session will be of primary interest to communities under 5000 population, rural areas or communities that might be interested in regional policing structures. A Ministry discussion paper will be distributed when it is available.

Time: 1:30 - 4:30 p.m.

Fee: $25

Forums

Tuesday, September 24

9:00 am – 3:30 pm (concurrent sessions)

- Electoral Area Directors Forum
- Large Urban Communities Forum
- Small Talk Forum

Fee: $48.00 (includes session, lunch and coffee services)

The primary purpose of UBCM is to serve the common interests of all local governments throughout BC. However, UBCM formally recognizes the diversity of its members and that “one size fits all” solutions don’t work for BC local governments. The Tuesday forums recognize this diversity and promote problem-solving among different interests. Choose to attend ONE of the following:

■ Electoral Area Directors Forum: In the Director’s Chair

Begins with two panel sessions designed for Electoral Area Directors. A general-interest session will follow in the afternoon.

■ Large Urban Communities Forum

Going into its sixth year, this session, designed for larger municipalities with particular urban issue concerns, is now an established part of the UBCM Convention.

■ Small Talk Forum

Designed to interest small communities.

UBCM members will be solicited for forum content ideas. Detailed forum agendas will appear in convention bulletins and in your delegate program.

CLINICS focusing on issues of specific concern to each forum will precede these sessions.
