What's the Difference?

Mental Health

A state of well-being, we all have it.

Mental Illness

A disturbances in thoughts, feelings, and perceptions that are severe enough to affect day-to-day functioning.

Mental Health Challenges in our Communities

In BC, mental illness will affect one in 5 people in any given year; that's almost 900,000 British Columbians.

By 40 years of age, 1 in 2 Canadians have or have had a mental illness of people in Canada reported a decline in their mental health since the onset of the pandemic.

This decline is more pronounced for those who experience health, social and structural inequities (e.g., people with disabilities, gender diverse peoples, Indigenous and racialized communities)

Mental Health Challenges in our Communities

- In the same UBC study, 1 in 5 people living in B.C. said they needed help with their mental health during the pandemic but didn't receive it.
- Of these people

35%	didn't know how or where to get help,
41%	couldn't afford to pay for help,
37%	found that access to care was limited.

Substance Use in our Communities

- Approximately 21% of Canadians (about 6 million people) will meet the criteria for addiction in their lifetime
- People with substance use disorders are up to 3 times more likely to have a mental illness
- Over 10,000 people have died as a result of the toxic drug supply in B.C. since 2016

Case Study: Peer-Assisted Care Teams

- PACT is a mobile civilian-led team that responds to crisis calls related to mental health and/or substance use, including:
 - thoughts of self-harm or suicide
 - family members experiencing challenges
 - substance use
 - loss of reality
 - feelings of hopelessness or despair
 - social isolation and loneliness
 - fear, anxiety, and depression
 - other mental health-related emergencies
- The program pairs a mental health professional and a peer worker to provide trauma-informed, culturally safe support to youth aged 13+ or adults.
- First pilot: North Shore, with Victoria and New Westminster to come

Discussion

- How are issues related to mental health relevant to local government policy and response?
- What are some of the key priorities a group like Local Leaders for Mental Health can address?
- In terms of first steps, how can we convene and engage participants in order to move LLMH forward?
